Accreditation

✓ Skills Development Providers

Accreditation of Skills Development Providers to conduct training against a registered occupational qualification is the prerogative of the Quality Council for Trades and Occupations (QCTO). There are Skills Development Providers accredited by QCTO against occupational qualifications, which are quality assured by ETDP SETA as an Assessment Quality Partner (AQP). For documentation related to accredited Skills Development Providers, please go to: <https://www.qcto.org.za/index.php/accredited-skills-developent-providers?layout=table>

✓ Assessment Centres

The ETDP SETA was nominated by stakeholders during the development processes of various occupational qualifications to become an Assessment Quality Partner (AQP) for all five occupational qualifications it has developed thus far. All nominations were accepted by the ETDP SETA and approved by the Quality Council for Trades and Occupations (QCTO) resulting to the signing of Service Level Agreements between the two organisations.

As an AQP, the ETDP SETA is charged with the responsibility amongst others, to recommend to the QCTO assessment Centres to be accredited for each of the occupational qualifications it quality assures. Once accredited by QCTO as recommended by ETDP SETA, the main function of an Assessment Centre is to conduct External Integrated Summative Assessments (EISA) under the tutelage of the ETDP SETA. The ETDP SETA has recommended to QCTO Assessment Centres for accreditation and their details are available, please go to <https://www.qcto.org.za/index.php/accredited-assessment-centres>
